inti-illimani

"Inti Illimani produce music of timeless, almost unearthly beauty . . . These superb musicians are using their many years in exile for a deeper re-examination of their folk roots." (The Washington Post).

Inti Illimani's music is drawn mainly from traditional Latin American sources, and is performed on Andean instruments. Since their first visits to Britain they have impressed audiences with subtle, superb musicianship and a powerful blend of vocals and percussion. With their work for the Ballet Rambert's Ghost Dances and the soundtrack for the BBC's Flight of the Condor series Inti Illimani have become widely appreciated by a British audience as the leading exponents of South American folk music and as representatives of the cause of the people of Chile.

This is a benefit concert for the Chile Solidarity Campaign. CSC works to end British support for the dictatorship of General Pinochet; to combat repression inside Chile and to support the struggle of the Chilean people — and especially the labour movement — to restore democracy and social progress to their homeland. While working closely with Chilean refugees in Britain, the Campaign draws its support from many British people and organisations, especially the trade unions.
